Loyalty...a word that many have spoken of, but only a few have lived.

Kem was only a boy when his loyalty was first tested. Everything in him wanted to be there for his mother, but he had to make his father proud. Carrying his father's most deep and darkest secret with him well into his adulthood not only betrayed his mother, but may have also cost him his daughter.

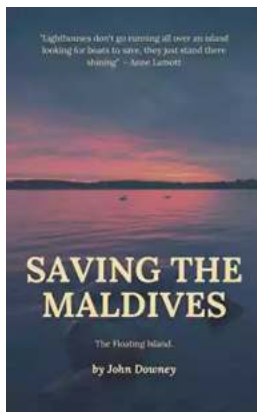

Cyntana was born with the heart of a killer...literally, and had been groomed as such ever since she was old enough to understand the family's business. Following in her father's footsteps, she wanted nothing more than to uphold the standards of loyalty to her father that he'd shown to everyone else throughout the years. However, being hothead, slow to listen and quick to take matters into her own hands, unbeknownst to her, she betrays her father in the worst way possible; causing him to put her career on hold while he blesses the streets with his fury.

They say a father is a girl's first love, but when it's all said and done and secrets are unveiled, could a girl's father also be her first heartbreak? China and Cyntana have to find out the hard way that everything they've known about their lives to be true was nothing short of a lie.

All the money in the world don't mean nothing if you don't have anyone to share it with. It took Lennox a long time to understand that, but do to his new love interest and a twist of unforeseen events, he's well aware of his expiration date in the streets. Will he take heed before it's too late?

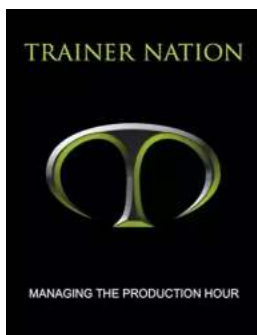

Young, wild, free, and struggling to cope with the cards that life has dealt her. Lexi's past is constantly haunting her and making it hard for her to move on. She may be pushing away her future because she can't escape her past.

In this hood romance, you'll be enthralled with these characters as you sit on the edge of your seat, turning page after page...and then and only then will you understand why Nothing is What it Seems.
